Real cases

Many young people were misled that they would have lesser legal liability for drug trafficking or drug abuse than adults. In fact, according to the law of Hong Kong, the legal provisions apply to people of all ages. The maximum penalty for drug trafficking is life imprisonment and a fine of $5 million. The following are sentences for some real cases of drug trafficking in recent years:

F.4 student was jailed for 11 years Trafficking ketamine for "Quick Money"

A 16-year-old F.4 student earned "quick money" of $3,000 by trafficking 2.63 kilograms of ketamine valued at $400,000. He was sentenced to 11 years and 4 months of imprisonment.

16-year-old teenager was severely sentenced to 13 years of imprisonment

A 16-year-old teenager was arrested for trafficking 1 kilogram of cocaine. At first, he thought he would only be sentenced to 2 years. In the end, he was sentenced by the court to 13 years of imprisonment.

F.2 student was jailed for 6 years on drug trafficking

A F.2 student involved in trafficking 440 grams of ketamine. Her counsel pleaded the court for sending her to training centre. However, the judge stated that drug trafficking was a serious offence. She was finally sentenced to 6 years of imprisonment.

17-year-old girl trafficking in drugs for $2,000 was jailed for 9 years

A 17-year-old girl involved in trafficking 1.86 kilograms of ketamine for a reward of $2,000 to purchase the latest model of camera. She was eventually jailed for 9 years and 4 months.
