

Sky

4B Ng Man Hin Angus

Hello, I am Angus, I am a little bird. Today I would like to introduce the sky. Sky is unpredictable because it can be happy, angry and sad.

When the sky is happy. It's blue. I can feel the sunshine. I can see people swimming in the beach and enjoy sunbathing. In addition, people can also play outdoor activities such as surfing and hiking. It's cool!

When the sky is angry. It's black. I can hear thunders and see lightnings. I can feel the heavy rain and strong wind. At that moment, I can't fly, so I will hide in the nest. People call it as a storm. If the storm is severe, it can cause flooding even landslides. Storm can destroy everything including houses and roads, people would get hurt, and even die! We are scared of it.

When the sky is sad. It's white. I can see snow and I can feel the cold. The temperature will drop below zero degree Celsius. All the rivers and oceans will be frozen. However, I can see the children playing with snow. During Christmas, I can see a lot of brilliant Christmas trees in the city.

At last, the sky is sick, because there are the dark smokes from factories or vehicles. I hope people don't make the pollutants. Save our sky! Save for us!
